Jordan advises private investment fund sponsors, institutional investors, private equity firms, privately held companies, and family offices on a broad range of corporate, transactional, and investment matters. He represents clients throughout the fund lifecycle, including fund formation, fundraising, governance, and strategic transactions, and counsels sponsors on continuation funds, secondary transactions, co-investments, restructurings, and other complex investment arrangements. He also advises clients on operational and management matters, including governance, compensation, succession planning, and other business-critical issues.

Drawing on experience at leading international and national law firms, Jordan regularly counsels clients on mergers and acquisitions, recapitalizations, divestitures, joint ventures, and private equity investments. His practice includes drafting and negotiating transaction documentation, managing due diligence processes, advising on entity formation and governance matters, and guiding clients through sophisticated domestic and cross-border transactions. Earlier in his career, Jordan advised multinational corporations on the tax aspects of M&A, reorganizations and restructurings, and other strategic business transactions.
