Hee Soo brings hands-on experience across litigation and counseling. Guided by a strong commitment to pro bono work, she has contributed to impact-focused projects that evaluate access to counsel and strengthen protections for immigrant communities.

Hee Soo initially joined ArentFox Schiff as a summer associate.

Previous Work

During law school, Hee Soo served as a student attorney in the Edwin F. Mandel Legal Aid Clinic, where she secured favorable outcomes in complex immigration cases, managed a high-profile federal matter through settlement and press outreach, and co-authored a published statewide report after surveying more than 300 law enforcement agencies throughout the State of Illinois. Earlier, she consulted for an accessibility-tech startup and worked as a paralegal supporting nurse licensing litigation.
